No limits on samples or size and no licensed operators would be needed as the home brewer should be dispensing his/her beer.

Hi Deborah,

Sec. 125.06(3m)(a) allows for a home brewer to showcase his/her craft free of charge for purposes of exhibiting, sampling, judging and tasting if held at a private residence or on a licensed premises. But, we have provided guidance in the past that as long as there is no exchange of money, no fees or other compensation to the home brewer then the event could be allowed on an unlicensed premises with approval of the municipality.

Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Thank you,
Kurt

Can Sabbatical Brewing LLC (a home brewer) give away beer at a public event held at our local Wellness Center? No money is being charged for anything.
