Hello,

I am wondering if there could be signage put up at the thick white lined crosswalks on Maritime Drive? I thought the thick white lined crosswalks meant that traffic stops for pedestrians unless I am mistaken.

From what I have heard, drivers' licenses are now done online. That may explain why some drivers do not know what Yield means, left turn only arrows among Pedestrian crosswalks. All I can say is someone is going to be killed, crossing maritime drive between Waldo and the Maritime Museum

I work near the Waldo end and stop at every lined crosswalk because I thought we had to. I have to use my hazards when I do, so I don't get hit.

Thank you for your time,
